

THE ART OF BRINGING PEOPLE TOGETHER

SINGULARITY

Craig Alan's new limited editions represent a tribute to art history and the artist's own place within it.

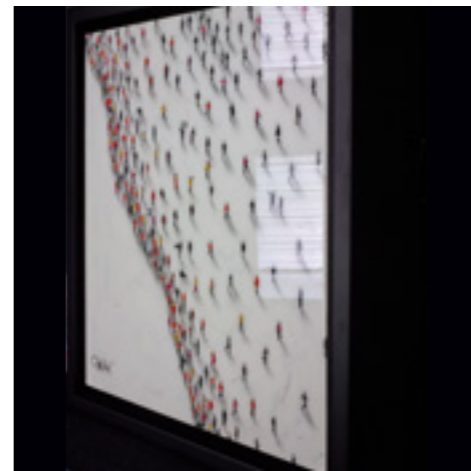

Referencing Dutch pioneer of abstract art Piet Mondrian, and post war master of popular culture, Jeff Koons, these two works are, he says, "an expression of gratitude and reverence to the greats who came before me. This is art that has the power to withstand the test of time and inspire artists for years to come."

Arresting and thought-provoking, these show stopping statement pieces are both inspirational artworks and fascinating talking points for anyone interested in art and its place in history and society.

MIXED MEDIA

Craig's innovative mixed media pieces explore the relationship between traditional techniques and modern technology. His creative process is complex and singular; after hand painting and scraping a multi layered background, he introduces a print element as a basis for the composition which is taken from his own carefully created image. He then hand stencils an array of characters onto the canvas, before bringing them to life with an exquisite level of detail adding faces, clothing and accessories, as well as their own personal shadow. Finally Craig finishes each piece with a rich reflective glaze, the last stage in the creation of a unique and beautiful collector's item.
