Ben Payne has built a reputation for creating artwork which is fresh, escapist and above all, uplifting. From the brilliant blue of a Caribbean sky to the golden glow of an English daybreak, he creates an enticing world of colour in a way which is both technically accomplished and highly accessible.

Ben's high impact oil paintings owe an artistic debt to a range of artists, in particular Turner and Whistler. Their influence can be seen in the way he captures the detail in a cloudy sky or a field of poppies with such delicacy, while employing a vivid and dramatic palette - a characteristic which lends his work an ethereal quality.

The accessible nature of Ben's work is very much a result of his background. After graduating in Psychology, he spent several years working with children as an independent therapist, an experience which taught him to value clarity and to communicate with honesty and directness. His powerful oil paintings display a certain innocence which somehow sets them apart from the work of his contemporaries. While his subjects are realistic they often have dreamlike overtones, rendering them an intriguing combination of enchantment and sophistication.
